Hang your cloud somewhere your message will be relevant and thought-provoking. Share an image of your dream cloud hanging proud somewhere in your local area or at home as a physical reminder to yourself to be a dream-maker. Include @craftivists so that we can appreciate your great work and share it with other dream-makers.

Sarah Corbett shares a crafty project for positive change

Let’s get dreaming! Hold your two fabric clouds in the palm of your hand. Picture your vision for the future. What do you see?

In your best handwriting, write a short message that describes an element of your vision on the cotton cloud.

Backstitch over your writing, reflecting on our crafterthought questions as you do so.

Puff up your dream cloud with ethical hemp or shredded paper, or upcycle worn-out fabric as stuffing.

Hang your cloud somewhere your message will be relevant and thought-provoking. Share an image of your dream cloud hanging proud somewhere in your local area or at home as a physical reminder to yourself to be a dream-maker. Include @craftivists so that we can appreciate your great work and share it with other dream-makers.